SOLID WOOD KITCHENS BY TEAM 7

Pure nature – reinvigorating your passion for cooking

TEAM 7's high-quality solid wood kitchens give a fresh and cosy feeling to every cooking area. There's something to suit any taste and space: from classic to modern, simple kitchenette to luxurious kitchen-living area with an island feature. Because here, authentic craftsmanship is combined with a pleasant naturalness and a clear, timeless design to create places of relaxation and enjoyment. We strive to offer premium quality, superb workmanship, high functionality and lasting value, all wrapped up in a lovingly crafted parcel produced with the users in mind. You only have to look at each and every item of furniture, cupboard and sideboard, right down to the finest of details, to understand this.

100% natural and sustainable

To make its solid wood kitchens, TEAM 7 only uses untreated European hardwood trees from sustainably harvested forests. At plants in Pram and Ried, great passion and craftsmanship are applied to transform the renewable raw material wood into a host of unique kitchen designs. By keeping its manufacturing activities in Austria, TEAM 7 ensures that its production is environmentally friendly and sustainable. All elements are made of 100% solid wood, assembled without formaldehyde and finished only with natural oil. With no varnish, staining or other chemical components, the material remains free of toxins and retains its outstanding natural features: the wood absorbs moisture and releases it again slowly, thereby ensuring a pleasant and healthy indoor climate. Wood is also naturally antibacterial and anti-static, it can breathe and neutralise odours.

The kitchen is the heart of the home

It's the finely tuned recipe of ingredients such as high-quality materials, skilled carpentry and attractive furnishing solutions that makes TEAM 7 kitchens so valuable. Their refined solid wood radiates a sense of vitality and creates a cosy atmosphere. The warm material is particularly well-suited to open-plan living concepts and kitchen-living areas that showcase modern hospitality. Cooking, dining and living flow seamlessly into one another – a twenty-first-century style of living that TEAM 7 embraces wholeheartedly with its custom-made kitchens.

Only the best ingredients will do

Just as in food preparation, the design and layout of a kitchen is all about the ingredients. That's why the homely elements of TEAM 7 kitchens adapt to all wishes with millimetre precision. From shelving solutions, sideboards and highboards and functional kitchen islands through to worktops, counters and display cases – available in a variety of wood types and styles and adaptable to different room dimensions. The kitchens can be given a whole new look simply by selecting different materials, handles, fixtures and fittings.

Clever concepts and smart solutions

This tasteful combination of wood and ceramic is what gives our kitchens their delightfully warm and cosy character. The robust natural material ceramic is a sure win thanks to its pleasant texture and soft colour gradations, and can be juxtaposed with natural stone, dark surfaces or glass to add a playful element to the design. You can also lend your kitchen a stylish flair by opting for coloured matt or glossy fronts and clear or smoked glass doors. If you value ergonomics, we can make your kitchen dreams come true with our selection of worktop heights and electrically height-adjustable kitchen island. They adapt to the height of the individual user and their respective needs, making them perfect for use as a comfortable workspace or a counter for hosting cosy get-togethers. At the same time, every corner is used efficiently: intelligent organisation systems and innovative extension technologies ensure that everything runs smoothly in the kitchen. Another practical feature is the specially developed undersink cabinet, which offers enough space to house modern water treatment systems, while shelves and alcove elements hold additional storage space. State-of-the-art LED systems also provide the perfect lighting to showcase your culinary creations and work surfaces.

Every chef has different preferences – not only in terms of their food, but also of the kitchen itself. What they all have in common, however, is a passion for high-quality ingredients and enjoyment in playing around with their own inventive combinations and having maximum creative freedom. Whether specially handcrafted, sporting a modern country cottage style, open-plan or enclosed – TEAM 7's premium solid wood kitchens are geared exactly to the wishes of their users in terms of design, layout, storage space and functional features. NOVELTIES 2023

TEAM 7's high-quality solid wood kitchens are where craftsmanship meets nature and the finest precision technology. And the new releases for 2023 are no exception – they too are the product of exclusive wood expertise and are sure to provide moments of pleasure and indulgence for many years to come. Because here, carefully crafted solid wood is combined with sophisticated functionality to create individual kitchen experiences. Made for an ecological lifestyle and cosy comfort, our custom-made kitchens appeal to discerning connoisseurs thanks to the texture of their oiled solid wood surfaces, their state-of-the-art features and their natural aesthetic. TEAM 7 kitchens are the amalgamation of exquisite design and a desire to uphold authentic values and provide maximum living comfort. The physical barriers between living areas are increasingly being dismantled and the space around the stove is becoming the central hub of the home.

High-tech flap hinge for upper cabinets

The many small yet subtle details of a TEAM 7 kitchen are what make it so special and accentuate its exclusive design. This primarily encompasses technical innovations, but also linked to our clear stylistic elements and vast wood expertise. Take, for instance, the new three-dimensionally adjustable flap mounting in combination with the aluminium frame fronts of the upper cabinets. Because anyone who is familiar with TEAM 7 is privy to the fact that it's always worth taking a look behind the scenes. The new high-tech fitting underlines the high-quality requirements for our solid wood kitchens and attests to the broad scope of our manufacturing processes. To ensure a perfect appearance, TEAM 7 has fully integrated the smart technology into the side of the cabinet: the door hinges are countersunk into the wooden element and concealed by the aluminium frame. This gives the interior of the cabinet a tidy and organised look, without any visible fittings or plastic covers, and provides you with more storage space. At the same time, the superior cushioning mechanism ensures comfortable handling when opening and closing the flap door. A masterpiece of craftsmanship, requiring the highest precision and vast expertise in working with solid wood. A new milling machine, which can be used to create the recess for the fittings in the narrow side wall, has been developed specifically for this purpose. The new design option of incorporating a glass side that is fitted around the corner is also exciting, as the kitchenette can be significantly enhanced with an attractive corner display case.

Black is beautiful – more design options

At TEAM 7, innovative ideas and the development of new products and features for every corner of the kitchen are part and parcel of our sophisticated design concept. Because a kitchen is much more than a mere assortment of units, worktops and electrical appliances – it's a space that is designed with love and is brimming with emotions and personal impressions. The blend of the aura radiated by the high-quality solid wood and modern materials creates a fascinating atmosphere in the kitchen. This is also demonstrated by the new TEAM 7 kitchen arrangements, which feature elegant accents in the trend colour black, like the latest strip handles, for example: in addition to the familiar stainless steel finish, the flush-fitted strip handles are also available in a matt black version. Our solid wood kitchens exude a striking charm thanks to the combination of the dark aluminium frame doors with clear or smoked glass and our new lighting profiles, which are also available in matt black. This is how TEAM 7 kitchens create an impressive and pleasantly emotional transition to the living area and combine lifestyle factors with modern elegance.

Miraculous storage capacity in XS format – bottom cabinet with functional pull-out

Another important consideration when designing a kitchen is storage space. TEAM 7 kitchens are made to measure and adapt not only to the space you have available, but also to your creative workflow. The latest bottom cabinets with functional pull-out are attractive organisation solutions with enormous storage capacity. Slim in design, yet equipped with a host of intelligent extras, they make your life easier in the kitchen and allow you to hide away utensils if you're going for a more minimalist feel. Practical: the new full pull-out offers enough space for large chopping boards and allows you to individually organise bottles and other bulky items, while its sophisticated design ensures smooth opening and closing at all times. Another advantage: all boards and sheets are stored upright, making them easily accessible at all times.

Well-organized: functional pull-out

Ergonomics for aesthetes – tall cabinet with dual pull-out

A high-quality kitchen should also impress in terms of the ergonomic benefits it has to offer. To ensure that every member of the family feels comfortable in your culinary workshop, the new TEAM 7 tall cabinets meet the eye of the user when the door is opened. The shelves automatically swing out from the cupboard in a flowing movement, not only providing a perfect view of the cabinet's contents, but also making them easier to access. The new dual pull-out makes a statement with significantly larger shelves towards the bottom and easily accessible, shallower sections further up, giving you a maximum overview and more storage space. Because we like to ensure that every millimetre of space fulfils a purpose. The door shelves and pull-outs in the upper section of the cabinet provide sufficient space for cooking utensils or supplies, while large storage items can be ideally stowed in the lower section.

Clear storage space

Magnetic board & linee kitchen with vertical grain pattern

Comfort and convenience are the meat and potatoes of every kitchen and are key to our well-being in everyday life. That's why TEAM 7 thinks about the wishes of users right from the (product) development stage, integrating an array of optional extras into its kitchen and furnishing concepts right from the word go. Just like the new magnetic solid wood panel, for example. Although at first glance it looks like any other high-quality wood board, the back of the panel has a series of holes that are filled with metal dust, transforming it into a nifty board that can hold messages, shopping lists, recipes and much more. The 2023 production run is also showcasing another special feature for the linee kitchen: the wooden fronts of the linee kitchen model are now also available with a vertical grain. TEAM 7 is thus opening up a whole new world of possibilities when it comes to kitchen design and is once again impressively underscoring its vast expertise in wood.

“COOKING IS AN INCREDIBLY SENSUAL ACTIVITY”

Interview with TEAM 7 CEO and owner Dr Georg Emprechtinger

Mr Emprechtinger, what is essential in clever kitchen design?

Good kitchen planning requires a great deal of empathy and is also highly personal. Every cook uses different ingredients and utensils and has their own storage needs. It's therefore our aim to tailor the kitchen as well as possible to the individual needs and wishes of the user. Our solid wood kitchens are individually planned and order-based. A whole host of factors have to be taken into account, particularly the following questions: is it a rented flat or your own home? What type of room are we dealing with, and what budget is available? The way we like to cook makes a difference too. To take all this adequately into account, you have to work with images, create a kind of kitchen cinema in your head, so to speak: in the morning, the children might be sitting at the kitchen table, and it should be quick and well-rehearsed, but also familiar and affectionate. If, on the other hand, you often like to prepare more extensive menus, then what you need are utensils within easy reach, variable heights, open spaces, short distances, and much more. The end result of this design process should always be a kitchen that is perfectly adapted – both ergonomically and architecturally.

How does that work?

On the one hand, of course, through the sheer aesthetics of our kitchen models: nowadays, these are more versatile than ever – the stylistic spectrum ranges from reduced, cubic forms and clear lines to an emphatically cosy country house style with expressive physicality, so that there's something for everyone. On the other hand, flexibility and functionality, to which we attach great importance at TEAM 7, play a crucial role: all elements of our kitchens are fitted with millimetre precision – this ranges from our shelving solutions, sideboards and highboards to functional kitchen islands, worktops, counters and display cases. Every corner of the room is used efficiently. To achieve this, we use intelligent organisation systems and innovative extension technologies, such as baking tray dividers and pull-out shelves with integrated appliances. It goes without saying that we are constantly striving to improve: the new, three-dimensionally adjustable flap mounting for our wall units, for example, makes operating the flap doors more convenient when opening and closing. And a new dual pull-out ensures a full overview and more storage space in our tall cabinets. Everything is easy to find and within reach. Not a single centimetre is wasted, so you have even more fun when cooking. At the same time, we always aim to create a perfect look.

Real wood plays a crucial role in your kitchen models, too. What are the advantages of using this material in the kitchen?

For anyone who sees cooking and enjoying food as a multi-sensory experience, wood is the perfect natural material for their kitchen. After all, this is where we store and prepare our food. Open-pore, untreated wood is the ideal material: it minimises odours, can absorb moisture, is free from harmful substances and even has an anti-bacterial effect. This creates a healthy room climate and, moreover, a pleasantly cosy atmosphere: after all, wood radiates vitality, it awakens emotions. It has a patina and history. Together with materials such as ceramic, natural stone or smoked glass – which we also often use in our kitchens – it also represents a long-term trend towards developing a natural, ecological lifestyle. If wood is treated according to strict ecological and economic criteria, it is unbeatable in terms of sustainability: wood is also naturally accustomed to all sorts of challenges and therefore highly robust. This makes it not only durable, but also easy to care for. Even small dents and scratches can be repaired and the traces of many years of use can be removed without major expense.

Speaking of long-term trends: has the importance of the kitchen in our home actually changed in recent years?

A conscious diet – natural, sustainable, healthy – has been part of many people's self-image for a long time. This goes hand in hand with the trend towards slowing down – people are looking for new, contemporary forms of cosiness and well-being in the home. These developments have also given the kitchen a higher status: it has become the heart of the home, a family meeting place and a highly functional workspace all in one. Family life and socialising primarily take place here. The trend towards open-plan living reflects this. That's why TEAM 7 also offers a variety of solutions where kitchens can be harmonised with the dining and living room furniture and linked together through matching design elements. The growing awareness of a kitchen's importance has also led to a desire to design it to reflect your personal lifestyle. So kitchen planning today is more individual than ever before.

Do you like cooking yourself?

Absolutely! When I can find the time – unfortunately, with my schedule, that's not nearly as often as I'd like. Everything about cooking makes me happy! The colours and shapes of fresh vegetables, for example, how it feels to cut them on the wooden board, the many different smells that are released during preparation – cooking is a meditative, sensual activity. I can gradually let go of what has been stressing me or keeping me busy during the day. In addition, working with my hands, creating something that we can enjoy as soon as it is ready – that's a wonderful way to relax.

KITCHEN CREATIONS

Living consciously, cooking together

The echt.zeit kitchen: an experience for all the senses

TEAM 7 Head of Design Sebastian Desch has created a place for real interaction and spending time with one another in the form of the echt.zeit kitchen. His inspiration: to combine handcrafted solid wood and smart functions with an ecological lifestyle and communal experience.

From the feel of the materials and the scent of fresh herbs to the lovingly designed details, the motto of the echt.zeit kitchen is: enjoy with all your senses. TEAM 7 discreetly blends warm living comfort with invisible technology and intelligent ergonomics – and interprets solid wood in a modern way. There is a clever interplay between the look and feel, which highlight the kitchen's expressive material thickness with clear lines. The character of the solid wood is further emphasised by the vertical millings of the echt.zeit fronts. They accentuate the wood's physical texture and create a visual depth. Combined with open shelving, the result is a kitchen with modern charm that radiates cosiness, but at the same time impresses with comfort and functionality.

The focal point is the kitchen island, which serves as a hub for cooking, washing up and eating. Designed at different heights, the three distinct areas enable ergonomic working and flowing processes. Efficiency is also guaranteed thanks to variable drawer inserts, a dedicated chef's knife drawer with a magnetic insert and pull-out shelf for kitchen utensils, along with matching alcove elements. Another plus point is the undersink cabinet, which was specially designed for a practical and environmentally friendly water treatment system. The removable boxes in the storage cupboard are just as well thought out. The matt black light bridge of the echt.zeit kitchen takes centre stage: whether it serves as a practical, dimmable light source or as a chic design element, it casts a pleasant and atmospheric glow on all the various kitchen utensils and creates a cosy working environment. Fresh, home-grown herbs thrive under the light too.

A key element of the modern kitchen space is the open shelf. Dishes, pots, food, niche elements or removable spice racks are not only easily accessible in this way, but have also transformed into stylistic devices. The integrated LED lighting creates the perfect setting for illuminating the whole shelf to great effect. Whether as a free-standing room divider, individual wall shelf, or part of a medium or tall cabinet – with its versatile uses, the open shelf is a flexible all-rounder. As well as this, it emphasises the powerful aesthetic and valuable physicality of solid wood, which is a recurring theme throughout the entire echt.zeit kitchen.

Boundless cooking pleasure

filigno creates elegant, flowing transitions between kitchen, dining and living areas

Slender and versatile – filigno: TEAM 7 worked with the design agency Tesseraux + Partner to develop the filigno range, which includes furniture for kitchens and living areas as well as occasional furniture. The essential ingredient is pure solid wood. Other materials such as ceramic are tastefully combined with the wood. This highly successful design recipe also includes clean lines, precise workmanship, and a sophisticated lightness of style. The elegance of the filigno range is defined by the three-layer solid wood panels – just 12 mm thick, but tremendously stable in form – which encase the body of the elements. A subtle shadow gap at the corners accentuates the slender lines of the design. filigno showcases TEAM 7's expertise with solid wood – evident here in the fine construction, using triple-layer technology, with end-grained edge inserts and many other precise details of workmanship – including in the interiors. The minimalist design and natural wood elegance of the filigno kitchen are matched in the lines of the filigno range for living and dining areas.

These days kitchens and cooks are no longer hidden away behind closed doors. Hosts and guests share the enjoyment, in an open culinary workshop that links seamlessly into the dining area and on into the living room. The layout of modern homes makes this sort of open plan design possible – especially in combination with the right furniture. filigno is a complete furniture range created for all living areas in the home – the perfect choice for consistent design style throughout.

Sideboard or kitchen island? filigno can be both at once. While the attached work surface made of ceramic turns it into a functional cooking island, the front part of the island serves as a sideboard. So the kitchen blends into the dining area. filigno occasional furniture also helps create seamless transitions between kitchen, dining and living areas. Stylish sideboards and highboards, consoles and wall shelves enhance any living area, with elegantly linear design, precise finishing details and smart functionality.

The visual lightness of the filigno kitchen island is complemented by a recessed plinth. The island seems to float above the floor. A recessed plinth can also be selected for filigno occasional furniture. Alternative options are slides, wooden panels or a metal frame base – or the elements can be mounted directly on the wall.

Customers designing their filigno dream kitchen have a choice of several different wood types, as well as fronts in coloured glass or ceramic, and various styles of handles. Interiors for kitchen storage furniture are also individually designed for each customer. The result is high-quality unique kitchens.

Country cottage meets city loft

With loft you can enjoy a healthy country lifestyle in the city

The loft kitchen may be inspired by authentic materials and the rustic charm of a country kitchen, but its contemporary confidence means it is perfectly at home in the urban environment, such as modern loft apartments.

“The loft kitchen is the modern country-style kitchen for those who love wood, enjoy cooking, and appreciate authentic craftsmanship with natural materials,” says TEAM 7 Head of Design Sebastian Desch, summing up the character of this TEAM 7 kitchen. Clear design lines and a subtle edge profile give the kitchen a clean, purist style, while meticulously constructed, strong wood joints celebrate traditional artisan craftsmanship of the highest quality. Lovingly handcrafted details include superb mortice-and-tenon joints and wood-framed fronts with clear glass panels. Urban or country style, modern or classic, future-oriented or traditional: TEAM 7’s loft kitchen combines these apparent opposites harmoniously.

From simple kitchenette to luxurious kitchen-living area with an island unit, loft offers optimal solutions for widely varying needs and living spaces – transforming the kitchen into a place for the whole family to gather. Open shelving that can be added equally well to a kitchen island or a kitchenette offers design flexibility. Technical details like soft-close sliding doors on the top cabinets, or the LED lighting, make loft a truly contemporary kitchen that is also highly practical and comfortable for everyday use.

Optional extras like the optional end-grain wooden butcher’s block with juice rim integrated into the worktop enhance its everyday practicality. Containers made of stainless steel or any of the TEAM 7 wood types can be added into alcoves or positioned freely on the worktop, to accommodate fresh herbs, cooking utensils, spices or a knife block. With tasteful features like these, the loft kitchen will whet your appetite for cooking, craftsmanship and healthy food.

Now you can enjoy the fresh air of the countryside in your city home. As in all TEAM 7 kitchens, the wooden surfaces of the loft kitchen are exclusively finished with pure natural oil. This solid wood kitchen is free of harmful substances, has an appealing natural scent, helps regulate humidity and acts as a natural filter for cooking odours.

The loft kitchen combines the natural qualities of wood – including its many positive characteristics – with the elegance of craftsmanship detailing and finish, as well as optimal functionality.

High-level cuisine

Height-adjustable k7 combines the latest technology, craftsmanship and nature

What do you get when you cross a kitchen with an elevator? TEAM 7 presents k7, designed by Kai Stania: the impressive result of this unusual liaison is a kitchen that glides to another level at the touch of a button.

At the heart of the k7 is a kitchen island with a height-adjustable worktop, which is setting completely new standards. It can be ergonomically adjusted to suit any user, according to their height and what they are doing. Whether it is for washing up, chopping or cooking, the worktop can always be set to the perfect height, to save back strain. The high-tech kitchen island is not just outstandingly comfortable to use, it also creates a smooth transition into dining or living areas. With a lowered worktop, the k7 island can take on the role of a sideboard, retreating discreetly into the background. With the worktop raised, it transforms itself into a modern bar counter, ideal for serving drinks and finger food.

Thanks to its smart mechanism, the worktop can be continuously adjusted to any height from 74 to 114 cm. The height adjustment system is almost completely noiseless and extremely easy to operate – a triumphant breakthrough in kitchen design for this pioneering solid wood specialist. The patented, globally unique lifting technology was developed in-house by TEAM 7. A flush-fitted control switch built into the edge of the worktop completes this beautifully crafted design option. The k7 kitchen island is also completely without handles. All drawers include touch-operated electronic opening, so that they can be opened and closed with just a light touch.

The kitchen is LGA tested and safety approved, and a stylish combination of materials makes it a winner aesthetically too. Solid wood meets coloured glass fronts, quartz or ceramic for the worktop, with stainless steel elements too. This combination creates a synthesis of nature and urbanity, of pure sensuousness and rigorous practicality. TEAM 7's trademark, much-admired "painting with wood" is also in evidence on the k7 kitchen island: the continuous wood grain pattern on the hand-selected fronts means the wooden surfaces create a remarkably harmonious and natural overall impression.

With its unique combination of nature, design and innovative technology, the k7 has become the flagship for TEAM 7 kitchens.

Something for everyone

linee offers customised kitchen designs in wood, glass and ceramic

This is the chameleon of TEAM 7 kitchens. With a huge range of different styles available, the linee kitchen adapts easily to any kind of space requirements and every individual customer's wishes. The combination of different types of solid wood – ranging from cherry and oak to walnut, beech and alder – and coloured glass offers scope for variety when it comes to the kitchen design. In classic or modern style, from a simple kitchenette to a large family kitchen with an island unit, linee makes planning as simple as a wish list. Numerous configuration options means there is a perfect solution for any taste. There is a wide choice of handles, front styles and elegant coloured glass sides.

Open solid wood alcove units integrated into the design add a particularly cosy touch to the linee kitchen. They provide options for arranging decorative accessories, attractive glassware, spice mills or a pestle and mortar. Alcoves loosen up the overall look and can be used as display cases – especially when designed with doors in clear or smoky glass. They can also be fitted with dimmable LED lighting as desired. The back panels of these display cases can also be individually designed, with glass in various colours or solid wood with horizontal or vertical grain pattern.

As well as its distinctive aesthetic appeal, the linee kitchen also prioritises comfort and ergonomics. Practical innovations simplify everyday tasks in the kitchen. A gentle tap is all it takes to open drawers and doors. And tucked away behind elegant solid wood surfaces are practical power sockets.

cera line: fascinating contrasts

The cera line offers the perfect blend of wood and another high-quality natural material: ceramic. Generous use of this material is the defining feature here, creating a fascinating contrast with the natural wooden surfaces. Ceramic also offers many practical advantages in everyday use. It is hygienic and easy to care for, making it ideally suited for contact with food. Knife blades, liquids and even acidic substances will not damage this resilient material. This tasteful combination of wood and ceramic creates a distinctive style with a delightfully warm and cosy character.

black line: warm wood and cool elegance

The black line is a strikingly elegant version of the linee kitchen, created by TEAM 7 Head of Design Sebastian Desch. Matt black coloured glass is combined with fine smoked glass, matt black handles and plinth panels. Open and closed design elements made from pure solid wood give the kitchen a more relaxed style and create a cosy look. Of course, the black line remains a solid wood kitchen at heart: behind the cool elegance of its black surfaces are solid wood elements, giving the kitchen warmth and stability. This purist designer version of a solid wood kitchen combines wood, glass and metal to create a thoroughly modern kind of cosiness.

l1: the attractive entry-level kitchen

l1 is the little sister of the linee kitchen – and the family resemblance is unmistakable: the same superb TEAM 7 quality, the same types of wood, the same timelessly elegant design style. The options in this range are simply limited to selected cupboard types and two styles of handle, which gives some advantages in price. This makes l1 an attractive entry-level TEAM 7 kitchen. With l1 even price-conscious kitchen design can be highly personalised. The individual elements of l1 can be combined freely with cupboards from the extensive linee range. This allows an almost unlimited breadth of design options. As with linee, open solid wood bodies can be integrated into the l1 kitchen as alcove units or display cases. U-shaped wall shelves provide creative options for kitchen utensils or the herb garden.

The kitchen classic

In the rondo country-style kitchen, craftsmanship meets functionality

Premium solid wood combined with timeless style: TEAM 7's rondo country-style kitchen is the epitome of sustainable, consistent values. The design is a playful combination of traditional and contemporary elements of style. At its heart are craftsmanship and the natural characteristics of wood.

Open shelves, cornices, top boards and the gently rounded edges discreetly emphasise the country cottage character of the rondo kitchen. Alcove elements, clear glass panels and delightful details such as the stand for a cookbook or tablet, the bottle rack, and solid wood light features combine to create rondo's special charm. This kitchen is also a winner when it comes to functionality and manageability – and turns out to be a veritable wonder of storage space. Tucked away behind a practical roller shutter is a top cabinet that provides plenty of space for kitchen equipment and various utensils.

Like all TEAM 7 solid wood kitchens, the rondo offers impressive design freedom and scope for individualisation. Customers can choose from the various TEAM 7 wood types, bar handle options in wood or stainless steel, and roller-door top cabinets with fronts in solid wood, a stainless steel finish or a matt black stainless steel finish. Various design accents in a range of materials offer scope for personal preferences, and the ability to plan a kitchen entirely to suit individual tastes.

The lead role in the rondo country-style kitchen of course is always played by wood, with its many talents and positive characteristics. Amongst other things, it has an anti-bacterial effect that provides the perfect basis for hygienic food storage.

Solid wood panels with mitred joints, surrounding a natural stone worktop, highlight the skilled craftsmanship that is evident throughout rondo. The beautifully constructed interiors of the kitchen, and drawers with dovetailed corner joints are further examples of the traditional Austrian craftsmanship which is an essential part of TEAM 7's work.

In the rondo country-style kitchen, the interiors of cupboards and drawers can be designed to your own requirements and ideas – with options such as the ingenious plate shelf that protects porcelain dishes. The flexible spacers can be adjusted to the size of your plates and dishes using the matrix of holes in the solid wood base. Natural wood also has the great advantage that it is particularly protective of good porcelain.
